

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS

(For The Sea Coast Echo)

WITH the departure of William Powell, Ruth Chatterton and Richard Barthelmess from the fold, Warner Brothers star list will have to be altered somewhat. "Money" is thought to be at the root of the trouble. Powell will free-lance Barthelmess is scheduled for one picture with Paramount and Miss Chatterton is negotiating with Metro.

With two famous teams working together in the production of "The World Is Ours," based on Kathleen Norris' novel, "Manhattan Love Song," Fox believes the success of the film is practically assured. The teams are Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell and Sally Eilers and James Dunn.

George Cukor, MGM's director for "David Copperfield," is scheduled to go to England in the near future to study the Dickens background in order that it may follow the original in every detail. He will seek an English child abroad for the role of the boy, David. Elizabeth Allen, young English actress, first player to be chosen for the cast, will accompany Mr. Cukor to England.

Nancy Carroll has been signed by Jesse L. Lasky for the leading woman in "Forbidden Lips," the somewhat strenuous cinema title for the picturization of Benn W. Levy's stage comedy, "Springtime for Henry." Otto Kruger will furnish the male lead, with Heather Angel, Nigel Bruce and Herbert Mundin also in the cast.

Carole Lombard and John Barrymore are scheduled for the leads in "Twentieth Century," the Hecht-MacArthur play, which is to be produced in the near future.

The fans of Gloria Swanson will be interested to learn that Irving Thalberg at MGM has engaged her with the intention of restoring her to her former place in the lime-light, if possible. While her salary was not disclosed, it is said to be relatively normal.

"The Great American Harem," a satirical comedy on the marriage license bureau, is the next film which Lou Brock will produce at RKO Radio, with Ginger Rogers in the lead.

Ann Harding and Robert Montgomery will have the leads in "Biography of a Bachelor," based on S. N. Behrman's play, "Biography," which MGM will produce.

Columbia has purchased "I'll Fix It," a story by Leonard Suigelgass, for Elissa Landi's next film.

Charles Laughton and Norma Shearer are to be featured in MGM's film version of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street." Production will begin as soon as Miss Shearer finishes her work in "Rip Tide."

LOUISIANA.

Louisiana, way down South,
My childhood's dearest home;
Beauty flowing from out thy mouth,
Far, far from thee I roam.

Louisiana, home of the pine,
Cotton and sugar cane;
Bower of flowers and of vine,
Winding bayous and plain.

Louisiana, of Romance
The scene and history too;
Thy fertile fields with joy entrance,
And hearts of lovers woo.

Louisiana, sweet thy tale,
Beneath the old Spain and France;
Place where Carnivals oft regale,
In gorgeous mask and dance.

Louisiana, far and wide,
Well known thy lovely name;
Here older river soft do glide,
Part of thy life must claim.

Louisiana, loved so well,
Remembered all thy visions sweet;
With thee someday to live and dwell,
Last sleeping at thy feet.

—RIFORD J. LINCOLN.

THE OLD BAYOU.

The old Bayou, so lazy, slow,
Dreaming, gliding along;
The trees dip down to it below,
And birds flutter in song.

The Bayou winding here and there,
With lilies on its breast;
The alligators hidden lair,
The frogs' and fishes' nest.

The Bayou, gentle, half-asleep,
Just ripples on its head;
The water pool, and dark and deep,
A sweet and peaceful bed.

Children playing about its shore,
Lovers beside its brim;
Singing its song forevermore,
At dawn or twilight dim.

Beloved Bayou, dearest friend,
Run on in silence there;
Perpetual charm your shadows lend,
Hiding from toil and care.

—RIFORD J. LINCOLN.

Falooks—Have you heard the last
Ford joke?
Goofy—I hope so.

"I heard that Bustante lost all fortune in the peanut industry."
"Yes—somebody stole his stand."

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS., FRIDAY, MARCH 9, 1934.

FORTY-THIRD YEAR, No. 10

WASHINGTON PAPER GIVES PAGE OF SPACE TO THE GENTLEMAN FROM MISS.

Interesting Feature Story of Our Pat Harrison—How He Humbly Rose to High Position of Today as Chairman
Of Finance Committee, Etc.

Practically a whole page of the United States News, published at the national capitol, was devoted to Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi in the issue of February 12th. Along with the article, which is considered of great interest to the Senator's many friends and which we take pleasure in reproducing, in part, are several pictures of the indomitable Pat arranged in an art layout of attractive design.

The United States News contains the following:
"The Senate met"—the Congressional Record will tell you, on that particular March day—"at 12 o'clock meridian, on the expiration of the recess."

The virile and stentorian tones of Mr. Harrison, one of the clerks from the House, read an important message from that body but failed to intrigue the Senators. A serious resolution was presented and referred to a committee without debate. It was not that the assembled solons were indifferent. They were merely distracted. All eyes were turned toward a desk on the Democratic side.

There with an anticipatory smile on his countenance and eyes already a-twinkle as they squinted down a long and provocative nose, sat the Gentleman from Mississippi.

Everybody knew what was coming. It was the anniversary of the inauguration of a Republican President and that could mean only one thing—Senator Byron Patton Harrison was whetting his forensic weapons for his annual game of "skin the elephant."

The mellifluous Mississippi was soon under way. At first, as usual, some the thrusts are angrily parried but the riposte always comes so quickly that before long the speaker is left discreetly to proceed unopposed while the quips fall where they may. Before long the Democratic side is shaking with laughter (it cannot applaud because that isn't done in the Senate) while the Republicans squirm and take it.

When it is over, though shaft after shaft has been sent straight to a personal target there are no wounds that will not heal. For Senator Harrison has that rare gift of irony which leaves no scars and is far more effective than the ugly slash of sarcasm or the bludgeoning blows of invective.

And when he does sheath his rapier and pay wholehearted tribute to a former victim he is frequently rewarded with an outburst of sincere gratitude.

Cherished Tribute From President Harding.
Witness the cherished memento, a letter from President Harding, which long adorned the Senator's wall.

"I am writing to thank you," wrote the President, "for the kind things you have said concerning my father and his visit (to a Confederate reunion) and the courteous references you have made to the present occupant of the White House. In your capacity as chief trouble-maker in the Senate you have said things which have caused me to lay my newspaper down and turn to a fresh pipe of tobacco for consolation. This very generous and considerate article has antidoted all of the things which have gone before."

We can well imagine that even the easy-going Mr. Harding probably would have liked to reach for something less innocuous than his pipe at some of the Senator's attacks.

There are many places in the world where it is as dangerous to be caught with a sense of humor as with a concealed weapon and one might easily suspect that the "great" deliberative body in the world, would be one of them. But so straight does Pat Harrison shoot and so ready is he to beat his spearheads of oratory into ploughshares of pleading endeavor, that nobody has ever tried seriously to have him disarmed.

He has been called, it is true, "the Senate Gad-fly." But that isn't half the story. Nobody could get and keep his job on the all-important Finance Committee in the Senate—and the House Ways and Means before it—not to mention Foreign Relations and others, unless he knew where he was going and why. And he has, along with a facile tongue and another facility—the sine qua non of political success—the ability to make friends.

Began His Career Like the Alger Heroes.
He was well groomed for his present job. Although the last century was well on the way out when he

County Home Loan Bank Appraiser Resigns Position

John D. Mollere, Hancock county appraiser Federal Home Loan Bank corporation, has tendered his resignation to the government, since the 1st of the month and is winding up such details that are his until his predecessor will assume office.

Mr. Mollere has had a wide field to serve and many applicants to satisfy and to that extent that the work has grown to such abnormal proportions, since details of the work seem to increase from time to time, as to make it impossible to do justice to all concerned. He has been conscientious and striven to serve to the mutual interest of all concerned and his district and state superiors speak so well of his work that the head office is reluctant as to accepting his resignation. In fact, it is understood he will be asked to reconsider his action. He wishes in future to devote all of his time to his work in connection with the Sea Coast Echo newspaper and printing plant. It is gratifying to note that he has made an enviable record and has served the trust so capably.

New Restaurant To Be Opened Next Thursday Night, March 15.

Bay St. Louis and vicinity will naturally feel proud of the splendid new restaurant which Mrs. Ward, proprietress of Ward's Restaurant, will formally open its doors on Thursday evening of next week, at 7 o'clock.

The Arnold building, head of Main street, has been leased and the interior entirely rebuilt and beautified to conform not only with strictest sanitary requirements but to the most modern and attractive place of the kind. The building is spacious, well ventilated and lighted with sunshine, and the interior is in process of transforming that will warrant the patronage of the most particular and fastidious.

There will be a ladies and gentlemen parlor or waiting room on one side to the front, appropriately furnished. Here one may wait for friends or rest, the place to be equipped with reading matter.

The restaurant proper will be located in the larger space on the north side of the building and to the south side the bar will be placed, separated by a paneled wall, the top of which carries a series of paintings in oil being done by a local artist, Harry Witter. The paintings are attractive and serve as indication of the kind of place the new restaurant will be, featuring only the best and always at the same former popular prices. Mr. and Mrs. Ward are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts and of the new place they are giving Bay St. Louis.

Public invited to inspect the new place Thursday evening, about 7 o'clock. Light refreshments will be served with the compliments of the management. If the better people approve of such a place for Bay St. Louis, the management says, then let them show their approval by a visit-Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Ward will be glad to see you.

St. Stanislaus boxing team was held to a draw by the Bogalusa mittmen at S. S. C. Gym, Bay St. Louis, last Friday evening, 3½ to 3½.

Spears of Bogalusa won a close decision over Joe Colson of Stanislaus. Both boys went at it from the opening bell.

Jimmy Filkins, Stanislaus won a unanimous decision over Blanche in three rounds.

Colin of Bogalusa had an easy time winning the judge's decision over Tommy Gordon. Harless and Rogers fought a clever three-round scrap with Harless of Stanislaus lost to Taylor by a wide margin, the Bogalusa boy jabbing with left at will.

Roy Strong won a close decision over Alston of the visiting team. Roy put up one of the best scraps of the evening. Moustier of Stanislaus drew with Nivers. Both boys gave a clever exhibition of boxing thru the three fast rounds of fighting.

Edmund Blaize, Stanislaus, 142, gave an exhibition with Bright 149, Louisiana State High School champion.

The teams will meet at Bogalusa next week in the second meet of the season.

FORMER RESIDENT OF BAY CITY WRITES FROM SUNNY CALIFORNIA

Fullerton, Calif., Feb. 27, 1934. It has been raining considerably, but the Orange Groves cry for more. A good downpour, serves for two seasons. There are fine Walnut groves and Avocado trees—some are very large with spreading branches, which trail on the ground. I saw an Orange and Lemon tree growing from one trunk; with the finest fruit too. A deep gully extending miles, catches the surplus water from the hills.

The fire-traps, which cover the mountains augment the terrible floods. Along the highway, boxes of Oranges are for sale, all of a standard quality and size.

Far away near Palm Springs, cherry trees grow. However, apple trees are unknown.

I read that Mary Roberts Rinehart, is recuperating at Palm Springs. Also that she has written more than 47 books. Many noted people visit there, including movie stars. The desert spreads before it, and the mountains rise close behind. In Palm Canyon grows the native Fan Palm, seen no where else in the world. San-cups and verbenas bloom in the Colorado desert through the winter. Mr. San Jacinto usually is covered with snow. Many interesting places are nearby; even a new high-gear road to the top of Mt. San Jacinto. Coachella Valley spreads out in front. Through it passes the U. S. No. 99 Highway. Palm Springs is quiet and restful. Much non-back riding is enjoyed; but although I saw a party of riders, I saw quantities of Bicycles.

On the way to Palm Springs, we visited the Colorado Desert—Devil's Garden a part of it is called. Nothing but cacti; tall ones, round ones, some having talelike bunches on the top. Signs forbid your taking away cactai plants. Candy is made from the large round ones. We stopped at the Morongo Desert Inn.

The road to Palm Springs passes through Riverside and Redlands. The lamp-posts have bell-shaped globes, with metal bells—this means, The Kings Highway or Trail of the Franciscan Fathers. High mountain range about you; over the foot-hills hover immense cloud shadows, the streets are lovely vales between Pepper trees, of delicate foliage and clusters of red berries. They only flourish near mountain ranges and hills.

Anaheim, near Fullerton has a lovely park. A large building in Mission style, encloses an open auditorium and band stand. There are many long-leaved palms. It has a baseball ground, tennis court and plunge. Also a cemented wading pool for children.

A string of pretty ponds have connecting bridges; at the far end of these is a cactai garden. It has every variety of cactai. A large cactus, a lot of snake cactus, which climb into trees. They grow on a rocky hill. A lot of small ones were started between tiers of earthenware. Lovely flowering peach trees grow near the pond, deep red, and pink. A number of lattice summer

ARDEN CLUBS TO MEET

Fifth Annual Convention at Pass Christian Mar. 22.—
To See Azalea Trail.

Perhaps the largest assemblage of garden-minded people ever to gather in the state will be in evidence at Pass Christian, March 22nd, when The Garden Clubs of Mississippi meet at that place in their fifth annual convention. Information released by Mrs. Alfred Stone, Jackson, publicity chairman for the state organization, indicates that a very attractive program is being arranged for the benefit of the delegates from the various clubs and their guests.

Included in the educational features of the meetings will be an address by Mrs. Paul Gamble, Greenville, State chairman of Roadside beautification for the garden clubs and President of the State Council for Roadside Protection; and a lecture on European gardens by Mrs. D. G. Rafferty, President of the Garden Clubs of Mississippi, who has recently returned from a garden tour of several European countries. Mrs. Rafferty made numerous photographs of the most attractive gardens of the Old World and her lecture will be illustrated with slides.

There will no lack of entertainment. One day will be spent in touring the wonderful gardens for which the coast country is famous, and another day on a boat ride, with luncheon served aboard. There will be a banquet on the evening of the 22nd and fish dinner on the evening of the 23rd. Saturday the delegates will drive to Mobile to meet with the state convention of the Alabama Federation of Garden Clubs, and drive over the Azalea trail.

This has been a very successful year for the Garden Clubs of Mississippi. All of the member clubs have been very active, and eight new clubs have been affiliated during the last three months.

These newly affiliated clubs are located at Hernando, Beulah, Kosciusko, Hollandale, Lucedale, the Irish Hill Club at Biloxi, Marks and the Rose Craft Club at Natchez. If we count the "circles" in the Garden Councils at Jackson and Laurel as individual clubs, this would bring the total of the affiliated clubs to above 60, with an individual membership of nearly 2,000. The federation was organized in 1929 with a membership of 8 clubs and an individual membership of approximately 200, indicating a very healthy growth, indeed.

In addition to other business to be transacted at the Pass Christian convention, there will be the election of the new officers who have been nominated by the Executive Board. These are: President, Mrs. C. W. Kittleman, Greenville; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. J. D. Duncan, Greenwood; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. E. G. Flowers, Jackson; 3rd Vice-President, Mrs. Paul Gamble, Greenville; Treasurer, Mrs. Julian Fort, Leland; Secretary, Mr. Ben Arthur Davis, Meridian.

$25.00 Dollars For A Name.

The Tropical Inn offers a prize of $25.00 for an original name, selected by the judges of this contest, to be given the New Club Cafe. This new dining and dancing saloon will be open to the public Thursday, March 15th. It is directly across from the present Tropical Inn and Cafe on Highway No. 90, Henderson Point, Miss.

GOLF MATCH WITH GULFPORT BUSINESS MENS CLUB.

This match will be either played at Pine Hills and Gulfport this Saturday and Sunday between the Gulfport Business Mens' Club and the Pass Christian Rotary Club has been postponed to a later date.

This match will be either played on the Pine Hills Course or the Great Southern course and is looked for with much interest.

houses were covered with different flowering vines.

Bra on the other side of Fullerton, is in the hills—all are picturesque; some are cultivated. In the town are many cactus trees; and stacks of Calla Lilies. We went to a movie, in a tiny theater called The Red Lantern. Wasn't I surprised when I found it quite large within.

The box office is a large red lantern. It was pretty inside; Chinese style. The walls were covered with pictures; two strange birds at either end, and dragons between them. In the middle of the side walls, were two large metal statues of Chinese Gods. Six large decorated lanterns lighted the theater. The price only 15c. Something happened to the serial: The feature picture was Jack Holt in "The Woman I Stole," story by Hergesheimer.

OUR UNIVERSE EXPANDS.

EXPERT glass makers at Corning, N. Y., will soon pour a molten mass into the mold out of which they hope to remove after months of cooling, a 200-inch telescope mirror to be used by astronomers in a larger study of the celestial universe.

Already a 120-inch mirror, largest ever made, has been found perfect in testing the process now used. It weighed five tons, took five months to cool and was practically without a flaw.

The new mirror will serve a telescope to be installed on some mountain in Southern California, where astronomers hope to pick up objects one billion light years distant as they look at many million years before even the lowest forms of life appeared on earth.

However, astronomers wistfully speculate upon the possibility of another mirror of the same size, with which, from some point south of the equator, to explore the outer confines of the other half of creation. The cost of such a duplicate would be several million dollars.

The astronomer's idea of the size of our universe is constantly enlarged as telescopes become more powerful. Recently, on the basis of results obtained with a 100-inch telescope, Dr. Edwin Hubble estimated the universe "now visible" included 75,000,000 nebulae, which are star systems much like the Milky Way. So distant are some of them that their light, speeding 186,000 miles a second, requires 395,000,000 years to reach the earth, but so vast is the universe that the nebulae are on an average about 650,000 light years apart.

HONESTY IS STILL WITH US.

IT is often said that periods of depression bring out the dishonesty in individuals, by which it is meant that persons do not pay their bills in the same manner that they did when money was more plentiful.

The Echo's idea is that, in many cases, honesty has little to do with the failure of people to meet their obligations. It is quite rare to come across a man or woman who does not prefer to pay what they owe. Naturally, when incomes are reduced or abolished it becomes impossible for many men and women to pay at all, and others are unable to maintain their reputation for promptness.

This condition, however, does not imply or prove dishonesty. Because individuals are encouraged to buy on credit and to anticipate their income it often happens that the expected exceeds the realization. With less money and more bills, the average debtor is up against an insurmountable barrier. If he or she happens to have dependents it often requires all of the reduced income to meet living expenses and nothing is left for the reduction of debts previously incurred.

The scarcity of cash was not caused by dishonesty, however much foolish buying may have been encouraged by those anxious to make the profits on sales. The incontestable fact is that what the debtor receives will not enable him or her to live and have any surplus. Under such circumstances credits need not expect payments, however much they may like to talk about old fashioned honesty and the sanctity of obligations.

ARRANGE FOR K. M. B. TRAIN TOUR.

THE annual tour of the "Know Mississippi Better" train will be made this year during the last 15 days in July, according to plans made public by the executive committee in charge of the trip at Jackson.

The committee, composed of Lieut.-Gov. Dennis Murphree, W. F. Bond, state superintendent of education and Dr. F. J. Underwood, state health director, announced that the train will stop at the following cities: Monroe, Shreveport, Dallas, Ft. Worth, Albino, Big Springs, El Paso, Albuquerque, Winslow, Gallup, San Bernardino, Sacramento, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Reno, Salt Lake City, Pueblo, Wichita, Coffeyville, Claremore, Ft. Smith, Little Rock, and Memphis.

Feather River canyon, Royal Gorge, Pike's Peak and other scenic spots will be visited, it was stated.

Major W. A. McDonald of this city is quite a booster and enthusiast of these annual educational trips, well worthy of any man or woman who may be able to spare the time and comparative small amount of money necessary.

Will Rogers in his radio Sunday talk termed Pat Harrison the Emperor of Mississippi.

Correct this sentence: "My store is so well known that there is no use for me to advertise."

Taxpayers should loyally support the public schools, and the school system should serve the entire community.

Baseball teams will soon begin spring training and for a few months every fan will be sure that the home team is the pennant winner.

Mail order houses continue to ship merchandise into Bay St. Louis. One reason is because so many merchants fail to go after business.

FEDERAL AID FOR SCHOOL.

APPROVAL of Mississippi's application for federal school aid may come within 10 days, State Superintendent of Education W. F. Bond predicted a few days ago upon his return from Washington.

Under the program, Bond said, relief requisitions will be tendered on a monthly basis with a prospective final total of $1,500,000 to permit schools to finish out normal terms this session. First allotment will be sought for February, he said, since funds were made available for that month in advance of perfecting regulations for their expenditure.

"The outlook, as far as this temporary and emergency relief is concerned, is favorable," Bond said. "We will not know the final outcome until federal officials pass on our request but on their assurance of aid we are asking all schools to carry on."

The superintendent conversed by phone with E. C. Buckley, county superintendent of Simpson, where schools were to close down today, and advised that the system continue there pending release of the federal monies.

Bond said members of his department staff would take the field next week to aid county superintendents in meeting the federal regulations in outlining their financial needs to complete normal terms.

"Normal terms," he explained, "range from six to nine months in the state, depending upon local tax support. The federal funds will go to pay teachers' salaries at the same rates they have been receiving and to keep schools open only for the length of session contemplated."

The funds, being handled through the federal emergency relief administration, will be disbursed through the civil works administration of Mississippi, which must pass on state school requests for aid. The aid is confined to rural areas under 5,000 population and to larger systems that serve rural sections.

While in Washington, Bond appeared before the House committee on education in behalf of supplemental federal aid proposed for the nation's schools in 1935.

NO EXAGGERATION.

WHEN Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes warned critics of the present administration that "they are laying a lighted match to a keg of powder when they raise difficulties in the way of President Roosevelt's program," he was not exaggerating very much.

Secretary Ickes warned such critics that they ran "the risk of blowing themselves up along with all the rest of us." Furthermore, "my conviction," said Ickes, "is that it was more than a political election which occurred in these United States on November 8, 1932. It was a social revolution."

"I believe that as a people we have definitely entered upon a new path and that if we follow it confidently and resolutely it will mean a happier and richer life for the average man, woman and child in our country. I believe in President Roosevelt and his social purposes."

The people of the United States realize now more than at the time how perilous the condition of the nation was in 1933 when President Roosevelt assumed office. Informed people marvel that conditions had been allowed to drift into so serious and critical a stage and fully realize that if it had not been for the heroic and unprecedented actions of the Roosevelt Administration that this nation might have passed through incidents as serious as the recent disorders in France and Austria.

This fact should not be forgotten. In truth, it is better appreciated by the great mass of our people than most of us are accustomed to believe. The fact that the average man and woman fully appreciates what Roosevelt rescued this country from is the explanation of his unquestioned and powerful personal popularity.

TAX SALE RESPITE.

ALL Mississippi tax sales are postponed for two months, as Gov. Sennett Conner signed a bill postponing sales of land on which taxes due have not been paid, from the first Monday in April to the first Monday in June.

The act, an emergency relief measure, is effective this year only and is automatically repealed in 1935.

Sheriffs of a score of counties called the governor's office to learn the fate of the measure, since under the old law advertisement of tax-forfeited lands was due to start in county papers this week. The bill not only postpones tax sales, but also postpones advertisement of the tax lists. Instead of calling for their advertisement for three weeks after Feb. 15th, the new bill postpones this to three weeks after April 15th.

The tax sale, scheduled for the third Monday in September, following nonpayment of tax installments due in August, is not changed by the new act.

Backers of the measure declared that many farmers and home owners have applied for loans from the Federal Land Banks, Home Owners' Loan Corporation, and other federal agencies and that in another 40 to 60 days these loans will have been consummated, permitting them to save their land.

Of course this will affect Hancock County and Sheriff Keller will not advertise the delinquent tax sale until one month prior to the first Monday in June, when the sale will take place.

SEEKING VETERAN'S VOTES.

FACED with the fact that every member of the House of Representatives and one-third of the United States Senate will face the people this fall in an effort to hold their jobs, one need not be surprised that there is a resurgent interest in the welfare of war veterans.

The drastic economy instituted last spring by President Roosevelt, which slashed payments to veterans who were not injured in war service and reduced pensions to many who were not in need, met the approval of the people of the nation. Naturally, many of those who were getting the monthly checks miss them and are anxious to have their names replaced on the government bounty list. They have votes and votes are what count with many Congressmen.

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHILLING

SOCIALISM.

IT is a fair guess that the next campaign for president of the United States may be between Democrats and Socialists, instead of Democrats and Republicans, and that F. D. Roosevelt may be the conservative candidate, as Herbert Hoover was in the last campaign. Whether that is a good guess or not will depend largely on the success of the "New Deal" in remedying the defects of our present system, or lack of system. James M. Thomson, of the New Orleans Item-Tribune, who cannot be considered a revolutionary, confesses that "two years ago and even one year ago, I felt that the faults and weaknesses developed under the capitalistic system might lead to the destruction of the system itself." He has not been alone in that opinion.

If the socialists are to become so important as they may it is well to know what they mean. The general idea of all socialism is that business should be managed, not for private profit, but for the general welfare, and that this result can only be secured by the ownership of production by the government. At this point all good conservatives tend to become wild, and their arguments ever wilder. They are apt to threaten us with everything from free love to starvation.

Huey Long is quoted as stating in debate that under socialism a man would not even own his own garters, which is not a mere exaggeration, but a complete truth, yet an untruth so often repeated that it needs correction. No socialist, of any school, would deny you your own garters, or your own clothes, or even your own house and lot everything in it, including your own family. Ownership of all property in common is a doctrine of communism, but even the communists, who are far more extreme than socialists, seem to except clothing in their schemes of confiscation.

The socialist is not concerned with "consumption goods," that is with everything used for the comfort and enjoyment of the owner, except that he claims that these will be more widely distributed under the scheme he advocates. He is interested in "production goods," or "capital," that is property used in business. He makes a distinction between an automobile and an automobile factory. Many socialists would not even try to own the factory, although they might interfere with the management more than the owners would like. Few of them would try the Russian experiment of collective farming, but most of them would try to control the marketing of farm produce better than is done at present.

There are many kinds, or schools, of socialists, differing in the extent to which they think social, or public, ownership should be carried, and the means by which the change from private to public ownership should be made. All of them believe that "natural monopolies" like coal mines, oil wells, water power and railroads should be owned and operated by the government in the general interest, instead of for private profit. The more radical the socialist the more he would add to the list of properties to be owned and managed by the government.

Socialism has been talked about in this country for as many years as the writer of this column can remember, which is a good many, but it has not been well tested in practice. The postoffice is the classic good example, and government operation of railroads during the war is the best known bad example. City ownership of waterworks, lighting systems, street car systems, etc. is socialistic. The Tennessee Valley Authority is a half billion dollar experiment in pure socialism. Government ownership in banks, under Jesse Jones, is not socialism, but a first step toward a possible socialism.

As a whole the "New Deal" seems like an attempt to correct the evils of capitalism and "rugged individualism" without destroying the capitalistic system. The N. R. A. is an attempt to obtain the alleged benefits of socialism by social control instead of social ownership. If it succeeds even moderately well it will undoubtedly reelect Roosevelt and his supporters, and leave the Socialists in a small minority. If it does not succeed much better than it has to date it is practically certain that there will be a very powerful drive for more radical measures. The Socialist party has an able leader in Norman Thomas, a large organization with good lieutenants, and a definite program.

If business can, and will, cooperate with government to provide a better distribution, not of property or capital, but of the product of industry, then the majority of us will be satisfied and will refuse to make a change. President Roosevelt will undoubtedly be reelected. If we do not have a marked improvement in economic conditions we may reasonably expect general and extreme dissatisfaction. One possible result of such dissatisfaction might be the election of Norman Thomas, or some similar candidate, as the first Socialist President of the United States.

The two months of grace allowed motorists in which to get their 1934 tags expires on March 1st, and unless the legislature further extends the time the 1933 tags will be out of style Thursday.

FIREARMS.

(McComb Enterprise)

A MAN rose from his bed Monday night, heard a noise in his home shot at what he thought was a burglar, and instantly killed his 75 year old grandmother.

More tragedies are caused by firearms maintained in homes for protection than are avoided by the presence of firearms. Enumerate for a moment the dangers caused through the presence of firearms in the home.

- 1—There is the ever-present danger of children playing with the pistol lying around the home.
- 2—When a burglar enters the home he usually is well armed and would prefer to escape but when threatened will shoot, and usually the burglar has the advantage, thus causing men to die because of their own weapons.
- 3—if the man in his own home shoots first and effectively he becomes a murderer, and there are few material things which men would exchange for such a situation.
- 4—The papers are filled with the stories of individuals who have been killed with "unloaded" guns found in a dresser drawer or in an old trunk.
- 5—Many a tragedy has been caused because men have had quick access to weapons when in the heat of passion.

Balanced the good that firearms do in the home with the bad, and the odds are against the possession of them.

MISTAKE.

(McComb Enterprise)

THE administration made a mistake when it cancelled all air mail contracts. It was forewarned.

It would be just as foolish to cancel mail contracts on all railroads should a couple of grafting railroad executives be discovered.

It would be foolish to suspend all operations, put all railroad men in the class of the unemployed, and block the avenue of commerce.

This the administration did with regard to the air mail.

As a result men have been placed in their graves; the price paid to learn the folly of this move.

The army has been discredited by many. By many more misunderstood.

Fortunately the administration has the courage to admit an error; an attribute few people possess.

PROMISED ENTERTAINMENT.

(Brandon News.)

THEODORE G. BILBO quits his $6,000 a year job in Washington, clipping newspapers. Some say he quit voluntarily. Others whisper that he had been notified that somebody else would get the job March 1.

We don't know. But it's a fact that he quit. It is also a fact that Theodore G. Bilbo is returning to Mississippi. We believe it is a fact that he will run for the U. S. Senate against Hubert D. Stephens.

If all these are facts, then we know darn well that it is another fact that this will be an entertaining race, regardless of whether anybody else is in it. Theodore G. Bilbo couldn't run any other kind.

(Brandon News.)

EDITOR Sullens says Huey Long is "lovable if you know how to get along with him."

We've heard that skunks are affectionate and gentle also.

But what we are wondering now is why Editor Sullens should have contended three years ago that this lovable character's alleged interest in Mike Conner's election was good reason for a righteous vote against Mike?

Governor Conner is equally inconsistent, however.

He says emphatically he will veto any "hard liquor" bill that does not provide for a referendum before it becomes effective.

Yet he was equally emphatic in his demands that the Legislature call a Constitutional Convention without submitting the question to the people.

The logical inference is that the Governor considers this one legislative statute more sanctified and important than he whole Constitution.

PAY THE BONUS.

(Pascagoula-Democrat-Star)

THE question of paying World War veterans the full amount of their "bonus," which isn't a bonus at all but an adjustment of their pay, has been before the country since 1930 and has been feared by big bankers and especially by that class who are mostly responsible for the country's financial ills.

It seems that every possible objection that could be raised against giving the former soldiers what is due them has been raised. None have been sustained. For more radical things than "paying the bonus" have been voted and done by the present administration in its fight for restoration of economic stability.

We have never before editorially advocated the immediate paying of the adjusted service compensation due World War veterans, but we do so now. We believe it should be paid, and that the Patman bill, now before Congress, should be passed.

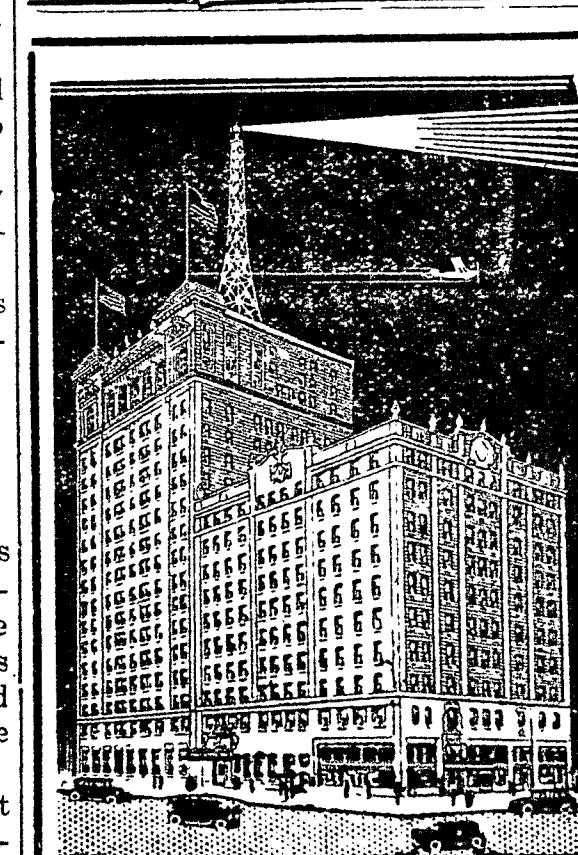

It provides for the full payment of the certificates in "new" or "greenback" money. It would mean that $2,400,000,000 of new money would be put into circulation in every part of the country. Mississippi would get about 23 million.

Congress is trying to distribute money among the people in many other ways. Some of them seem foolish; many are frankly experimental. Paying the debt to the soldiers would be a big contribution to the buying power of the nation.

Sapling Sayings

(Activities of C. C. C. Camp, Miss. P-52)

By A. SAP.

FIRE! fire! fire! The monotony of that word is driving us looney!

Fire fighters hate details and figures, in fact the boys will probably say the Sap is far wrong and that the amount of hours given are far below the work done by them. Well boys, I am helping fight them and I feel the same about it but we must let the records talk for themselves. The exact number of "man-days" last month was six hundred fourteen (614). In other words it would take one man working eight hours a day for 614 consecutive days to do the work charged to fire fighters in this camp for the month of January. Don't forget we had a few rains last month too. In fact it is not unusual for us to have fires in the evening following a heavy rain the night preceding.

Folks that is lots of fire for one county! Ad in one short month, eight hours a day times six hundred fourteen days equal four thousand nine hundred and twelve hours of fire fighting for the month of January. All hours of the day and night. Mention fire to a camp boy then duck.

With the above work over and above the regular work when regular work can be done has kept the Sap too busy to write and conduct this column as it should have been, so you will please accept the above excuse and apology for the lateness and lack of news. Thanks.

The news is now back up to date for as near as it is possible to send in news to a weekly paper. But it is extra work and no thanks so far as can be seen.

One man has been caught and arrested for setting fires. The disposition of his case will be reported later. He was caught by the "spotters." Each day a group of men are sent through the woods just to try to catch those people who are so ignorant and mean as to set the woods on fire.

And to date there are lots of "spite fires" being reported. Well go to it boys but if you are caught, expect no mercy in the eyes of the law.

Mrs. Farrelly and small daughter are spending a few days with Lt. Farrelly.

The following camp dance will be given this Friday night in the Recreation Hall with Louis Carrol furnishing the rhythm.

A poem copied from "Happy Days," the official C. C. C. paper: Poems are made by foolish folks, God can make a tree; How sad to think the mighty oak Was once a nut like me.

Also taken from the same paper: Home Brew: Chase wild bull frogs for three miles and gather up the hops. To this add half a pint of soap to make it foam and four door shells to make it smooth, one bar of then strain it through an L. W. W.'s knobs to hold it down after you drink it. Boil for thirty-six hours, sock to keep it from working. Add one grasshopper to each pint to give it a kick. Pour a little in the kitchen sink. If it takes the enamel off it is then ready for bottling.

Well folks I suppose I will have to stop and get ready for another fire as it has been almost ten minutes since I was last called.

WASHINGTON PAPER GIVES PAGE OF SPACE TO THE GENTLEMAN FROM MISS.

Interesting Feature Story of Our Pat Harrison—How He Humbly Rose to High Position of Today as Chairman Of Finance Committee, Etc.

arrived to view its fading years—in 1881 to be exact—he had the handicap and the distinction of being a Civil War orphan. His father, considerably older than his mother, had been an invalid as a result of his war service and died when the boy was an infant.

One of young Pat's earliest undertakings was selling newspapers. He brought to this commercial endeavor characteristics which still adorn his career. An excellent pair of lungs and a very healthy imagination. When mere volume of sound in his sales appeal failed he resorted to other tactics. This was the time when the Spanish War was thrilling the nation somewhat distantly, the nation according to some of the oldest inhabitants of Crystal Springs, Miss., which was his birthplace, he made the most of it. Not merely his oratorical efforts but his facts, his figures, and his pronouncement, they say, were all marked with a decided originality. When for instance a dull day in the Cuban jungles or among the activities of the admirals failed to produce sufficiently exciting news, young Pat would provide what was lacking by hawking to a startled public: "Ten thousand Spaniards an-hi-lated!"

Graduating from news hawking and later, bus-driving, and from the public schools, young Mr. Harrison was somewhat uncertain as to what course he would pursue. He had tried his hand at baseball and for one reason or another at last decided that he could combine this calling with an attempt at higher learning. This he accomplished by playing a little semi-professional ball in the summers and a more academic variety on the college diamond. It worked and he emerged with a degree from the State University.

Preceptor's Prediction That Was Fulfilled.

With much of a start he began to read law. Many years later his aptitude in that field was established by the discovery of a long forgotten document in the desk of Judge Stone Deavours, dean of the law department of the University of Louisiana, who was Chancellor when the aspiring Mr. Harrison took his bar examination. The document was his examination paper and written across it were the examiner's prophetic words: "This young man will go far."

Today Senator Harrison is the last man to boast of his profundity of learning but more than one expert, summoned to consult with him on various matters in connection with his duties, especially those on the Finance Committee, come away impressed with his clear-thinking and quick grasp and understanding of abstract and technical problems. Judge Deavours has proved himself to be a good judge.

It was not altogether chance that sent Pat Harrison into law. His mother's family was full of lawyers. But politics, he says now, was unpremeditated. It was not long, however, before nature took its course and he was elected district attorney. The result was probably inevitable. Six years later, still under 36, District Attorney Harrison resigned to run for Congress. He was duly elected and served four terms, and then in 1922 he was nominated for the Senate. His opponent, Senator Vandaman, went down to defeat after a scorching campaign and Senator-elect Harrison succeeded to that distinction so cherished by his predecessors, the right to sit at the historic desk of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

There is a story about that desk. On its side are two scars and legend has it that they were inflicted by one of the Union soldiers when the Senate Chamber was being used as a hospital during the war between the States. It is a credible tale since there is a plaque bearing ex-Senator Davis' name on the desk and that, and a handy bayonet, might have prompted the act.

While a Representative, Mr. Harrison was making a reputation for his glib humor and ready repartee in debate he was also engaged in some private research that most people didn't know about. With Bennett Clark, son of the late Champ Clark, he made a thorough study of the procedure which stood him in good stead later on. Meanwhile, an omnivorous reader of daily happenings he soon began to display an uncanny knowledge of what was going on. A remarkable memory helped and with his naturally sharp perceptive powers made his work in committee count. Gradually his opponents' efforts to avoid taking him seriously proved futile and it became generally recognized that here was a man to be reckoned with.

One of Senator Harrison's admirers dubbed him the "Jeb Stewart of Democracy" and it must be admitted that there is some force to the simile. He is a past master of sudden and quixotic sorties that are frequently as successful as those of the dashing Confederate cavalier. One example of his use of what in business is called "nuisance value" is worth retelling. It deals with his sugar-tariff victory. His method was simple but effective: He first figured out to the last decimal point just what the higher duty would mean to the people of the states of certain Republicans who happened to be up for re-election. Then with his usual ungloried emphasis he pointed out to these candidates just what the statistics might do for their opponents in the coming campaign. And when the votes were counted enough of them had changed their eyes to noses and the trick was done. He had scared his enemies right into camp.

Some of his Democratic colleagues have written a tribute to his value to his party, less tangible, perhaps, than some of his other achievements, but one that should not be overlooked. When the Democratic cohorts returned after their bitter defeat in the Smith-Hoover campaign there was one head, unbloated as well as unbowed. Senator Pat Harrison was up and at 'em just as if nothing had happened with his ceaseless sniping, his laugh-provoking ridicule, and a courageous good humor that gradually became contagious. He had played baseball and he was out to get the jinx off the team. It wasn't long before the effect was noticeable in a renewed confidence that was a harbinger of the victory to come.

WILL ROGERS IN "MR. SKITCH" AT A. & G. SUN. & MON.

Zasu Pitts Plays Opposite Famous Humorist In New Fox Picture

Declaring it to be the most poignant and human comedy he has had to date, an enthused Will Rogers will have the stellar part in "Mr. Skitch," the new Fox production Sunday and Monday at the A. & G. Theater. The story by Ann Cameron, appeared in the Saturday Evening Post several years ago and is considered a classic of humorous writing.

Elaborate plans were made to make this film one of the most pretentious comedies of the season, and from advance reports the film lives up to the expectations of the producers. Rogers himself, who is acknowledged America's greatest funster in all fields of expression, endorses "Mr. Skitch," as the most amusing situation that it has ever been his fortune to play in.

In the film he is cast as the heroically indolent head of a family of six. Through a bank failure, he and his family are left penniless and put out of their home. He gathers up his voracious brood, puts them in a dilapidated car and speeds westward, hoping to secure a job in some other community. Extraordinary adventures with petty gambling and the trials and tribulations of migration from one auto camp to another constitute the comedy-with-pathos elements of the story.

A considerable part of the picture was filmed on location, with numerous auto camps and scenic spots as settings. Some of the splendors employed as the background for the film are the spectacular eruption of Old Faithful Geyser, the beauty of the falls and lake in Yellowstone Park, and the awe-inspiring magnificence of the Grand Canyon.

Heading the cast in support of Will Rogers, Zasu Pitts, the screen's foremost comedienne, plays the part of Roger's wife. Other members of the cast, noted for their careful selection, are Rochelle Hudson, Florence Desmond, Harry Green, Charles Starrett and Eugene Palette.

James Cruze directed from the screen play by Ralph Spence and Sonya Levien.

CLERMONT HARBOR

THE Clermont Harbor P. T. A. held their monthly meeting at the school house. There was a nice attendance. The president, Mrs. Mogabgab gave a very interesting account of the Annual Convention held at Bay St. Louis. Preparations are being made to give an Easter Egg hunt for the school children.

On Monday afternoon quite an enjoyable time was had at the school house. Mrs. James Sylvester, County Chairman of the Recreation Program, under the direction of CWA organized a recreational hour. Songs games and mind tests made up a program that made much laughter and merriment. The hour was thoroughly enjoyed by those present and an invitation is extended to the public to join us Monday at 3 P. M. Mrs. Sylvester had as her assistants the Misses Hazel Kergosien, Hona Ansley and Lucille Bessacson.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Martin and son, Jack, of New Orleans, spent the week-end at their home on Third street.

Mr. Eugene Mogabgab and son, Louis, are spending several days in New Orleans.

DIZZINESS

relieved by Black-Draught
I decided to take Theodor's Black-Draught, and I had heard how the bilious spellers, writes Mr. Chas. D. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I got bilious I feel sleepy and tired. I do not feel like doing my work. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I took how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I guess it rid me of the bile, for I feel better. I don't feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I sit down. That, to me, is a very bad feeling. Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for Children."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

LT. GOV. MURPHREE ENDORSES.

Logtown, Miss., March 1, 1934.
Sea Coast Echo,
Bay St. Louis, Miss.
Gentlemen:

In your February 23rd edition you kindly published a letter written by the writer, representing the County School Board, and Messrs. J. M. Givens and D. L. Russ, Local School Trustees, addressed to Hon. A. H. Stone, State Tax Commissioner, Jackson, Miss., in which we took exception to a statement Mr. Stone made before the National Sales Tax Conference at Indianapolis. We want to thank you very much for giving this letter space in your valuable paper.

In this connection would say that while up to this writing we have not heard from Mr. Stone in reply, we do have a letter, however, from Hon. Dennis Murphree, Lieutenant-Governor (we having sent him copy of the letter to Mr. Stone), and I take pleasure in enclosing the same herewith together with an additional letter from Mr. Murphree authorizing publication of his communication. I will appreciate very much if you can see your way clear to publish Mr. Murphree's letter in your next issue. Would also appreciate any editorial comments you may care to make on this matter.

Yours very truly,
C. W. FOUNTAIN.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 21, 1934.

Mr. C. W. Fountain,
Logtown, Mississippi.

Dear Friend:

I answer the copy of your letter to Hon. A. H. Stone.

You are exactly right in your statements. I have been preaching this in all of my speeches and public addresses in the State.

The school people passed the sales tax and have never profited one dime out of it.

I am working hard to try to get an extra million dollars for the school folks at this session.

Sincerely your friend,
DENNIS MURPHREE,
Lieutenant-Governor.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 27, 1934.

Mr. C. W. Fountain,
Logtown, Mississippi.

Dear Sir:

You have my authority to publish the letter about which you write.

Sincerely your friend,
DENNIS MURPHREE,
Lieutenant-Governor.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Bay St. Louis, Miss., March 5, 1934.

Editor Sea Coast Echo:

No sensible person questions the fact that public schools are necessary for mass education. Neither should any reasonable individual doubt the necessity for educating all members of society, where, like in this county, each unit is given political power and is urged to exercise it. Good government and safe administration requires an intelligent electorate, one which is wise enough to pick the flaws in the appeals of demagogues who would rule and sensible enough to resist the flattery and promises of irresponsible office-seekers.

While the cost of our public educational system is not too high the questioning comes in regard to the processes and products of the system. There are many who critically wonder if our present processes adequately equip those who complete them for present day living. Graduates of a modern high school, for example, should have some concrete ideas of meeting the economic demands of life, they should be better trained for the exercise of the political and social responsibilities which, as parts of the general society, they will have to meet and fulfill. There exists, rightfully, a question in thoughtful minds as to whether or not our present educational system is adapted to the fullest possible degree for the proper execution of these modern demands. It used to be that the mere word, "education," was enough to win the support of the progressive elements of our citizenship but, and it may be part proof that the school system is improving things, many are to be found now who do not blindly and enthusiastically support everything which bears the educational label.

The public school system securely established in the proper mind. While financial embarrassments may have come during the recent years of depression, as a rule the taxpayers will respond to a demand for money to run the schools unless they begin to doubt the results being produced. Teachers and friends of education, particularly the public school system, need not devote the greater part of their time worrying about finances. At the present period their major concern should be to change and adapt the old educational methods and processes to more adequately meeting the demands and needs of a new era. This done, it will be recognized by the public, which will willingly and generously provide whatever funds are necessary to continue such a beneficial activity.

Respectfully,
AN OBSERVER.

Wants the Fun

Muriel—Why would you marry a widower, Suzanne?

Suzanne—Why, Muriel, when I marry I want the fun of taming my man.

Newspapers Overlooked In Pay-Off

It is stated that the Democratic National Committee is indebted to the two principal broadcasting systems of the country to the tune of something like $155,222.00. Whether or not this be true, it is a well-known fact that during the campaign hundreds of thousands of dollars were paid the broadcasting companies of the country for the use of their equipment in putting campaign speeches on the air.

It costs lots of money to equip and maintain a radio station, and the services rendered were probably worth all they cost. The point we are driving at is that the daily and weekly press of the United States carried these speeches of both the political parties in the contest without charge and in much greater detail than was possible over the radio. Nobody ever thought of paying them for their services.

How Dare You
Father—No, Johnny, I don't know the Latin word for "people."
Johnny—"Populi."
Father—How dare you accuse your father of lying.

Caller—Does your maid try to make the food go as far as possible?
Mistress—Oh, yes; a lot of it goes at least a mile—from our house to hers.

The church, whether the sanctimonious think so or not, is a meeting place for sinners, not for saints.

HOW ONE MAN LOST 22 POUNDS.

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—My first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all of the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now feel like a new man."

To lose fat safely and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—an 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks—Get it at any drug store in America.

If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

The printed word reaches more people sooner than verbal or personal contacts. It has an approach that rivals that of the best salesman; it often gets in where real salesmen fear to tread. OF SOCIAL INTEREST

(By Our Society Editor)

BRIDGE HAS AN ALMOST DAILY INNING IN LOCAL SOCIAL ACTIVITIES.

SOCIAL life in Bay St. Louis seems to ever keep pace with the times, regardless of what might be or otherwise, only during the Lenten season there are no larger entertainments. Contract bridge, of which Mrs. Leo E. Kenney is the local exponent and has served to an appreciable extent, continues in high favor. There are various clubs and hardly a day passes without a club assembly or a private foursome.

The Monday Club represents a congenial number, the Tuesday Club is one of the older groups and continues on with increased zest and pleasure each week; the Wednesday Club precedes the game with a luncheon at some nearby point on the Coast. The Thursday Club is a larger club of a group of ladies who enjoy the weekly get together, while the Friday Club is one of the newer ones and plans an event for the immediate future. Thus the varieties of local social life is kept alive and gives that touch of the salt of vitality essential to form a happy balance of the daily routine.

ENGAGEMENT AND ANNOUNCEMENT OF FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE.

THE engagement and marriage sometime in the Spring is announced by Miss Mary Octavia Bourgeois to Mr. Charles A. Breath, Junior, of Bay St. Louis.

Miss Bourgeois is a daughter of City Commissioner and Mrs. W. L. Bourgeois, a graduate of St. Joseph Academy and a most accomplished and popular young lady. She is a grand daughter of the late Major Charles Chadwick of civil war fame, Major Chadwick's picture appearing in school histories of the United States during the conflict between the States. Miss Bourgeois is well connected and her engagement and announcement of her early marriage is a item of news of unusual interest, both here and in New Orleans where she is more particularly known.

The groom-elect is well known young business man of this city. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Breath, grandson of the late Judge and Mrs. John A. Breath, also on his maternal side grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Leonard of New Orleans, also, a nephew of the late Ernest J. Leonard. He is not only well known in business circles, but in yachting and athletic circles. In athletics he is on the outside faculty of St. Stanislaus College. He is a member of the board of directors of the Merchants Bank & Trust Company, in addition to other affiliations.

It is interesting to note the honeymoon trip will be taken in Mr. Breath's own boat, possibly down to Florida, both he and Miss Bourgeois enthusiastic in boating. And it is planned on their return to make their home in the spacious and flower-embowered Southern dwelling of Mr. Breath's parents, on the beach boulevard.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED BY NUMBER OF FRIENDS AT "ANSWER" MONDAY.

MEMBERS of the Monday and Friday Bridge Clubs successfully surprised Mrs. Charles G. Moreau Monday afternoon at "The Answer" on the occasion of her birthday, March 5, 1934, when a luncheon of some twelve covers was served and bridge followed the balance of the evening.

The table was attractively set for the occasion, red japonica blossoms and buds used effectively and with artistic arrangement. A special luncheon menu was served for the occasion.

The honoree of this party was presented with substantial and pretty presents, in addition to cards and telegrams that had come during the day, supplemented with flowers and bouquets. One of the remembrances was a large cake forming a perfect letter "M" measuring 16 inches from top to bottom and with appropriate width. This was made of pound cake, topped with a decoration of sweet pea and green leaves.

IN AN EMERGENCY

ELECTRIC HOT WATER SERVICE

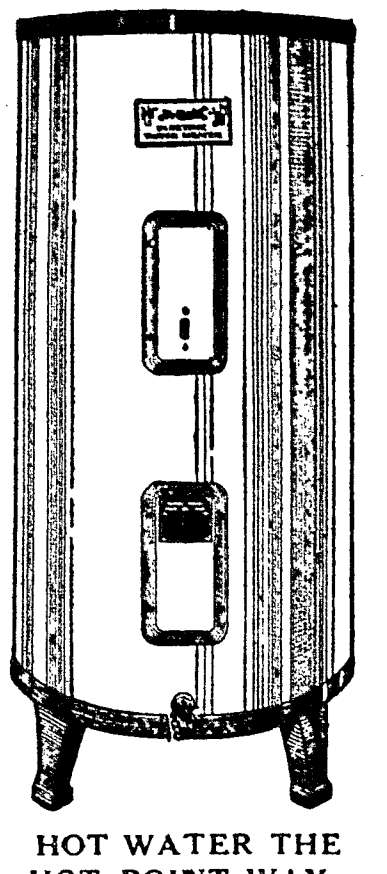

There are times when hot water—immediately—is a necessity.—at such times, simply having a way to GET hot water is far from being satisfactory.

Emergencies such as sickness, unexpected guests, or other out of normal hot water requirements can be met with the turn of faucet when HOT WATER SERVICE is supplied by an automatic electric water heater.

Today we demand instantaneous lighting and domestic water service. More and more we are finding that hot water—the help in a hundred household tasks—is no less vitally necessary all around the clock.

Let us install an automatic electric water heater in your home so that you may enjoy HOT WATER SERVICE normally or in an emergency.

A telephone call or visit to our office will bring full details.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD PRESIDENT HONORED THROUGHOUT U. S. FOR 35 YEARS OF SERVICE

Bradshaw's Long, Faithful Devotion to Duty Celebrated During March

Woodmen of the World members throughout the entire country are celebrating the month of March in a gigantic campaign in honor of De E. Bradshaw, president, who has served W. O. W. in an official capacity for thirty-five years. Thousands of W. O. W. camps in every state will hold special celebrations and programs during March to pay tribute to the long and faithful service of Mr. Bradshaw.

Mr. Bradshaw, whose life has been typical of the log cabin boy who has risen to dizzy heights, was honored at his birthplace in Izard county, Arkansas, where local and national W. O. W. officials gathered for a special celebration. His mother, 97 years old, still lives near his birthplace.

Mr. Bradshaw has always been a strong church worker, having served as president of the Arkansas Humane Society and has participated in scores of charitable and civic endeavors.

His first national W. O. W. office was Sovereign Sentry in 1899 in Little Rock. He later went to W. O. W. headquarters in Omaha as General Attorney and his work was so outstanding that it brought him national prominence as the leading fraternal life insurance counselor in the country.

"The record of Mr. Bradshaw is so outstanding and noteworthy that the spirit of fraternalism in W. O. W. has never before been greater," said Col. T. E. Patterson, vice president. "Mr. Bradshaw has endeavored himself to every member because he not only has been progressive in expansion, but his wisdom in safe investments and protection for policyholders is a shining example for the entire country."

A giant bulletin board has been erected in Mr. Bradshaw's office upon which are posted daily results of a campaign to exceed all past records for a month. It is expected that the total will exceed eight million dollars.

The Woodmen of the World Life Insurance association is showing evidence that the "corner of prosperity" has been reached, its assets having been increased during last year by more than $4,500,000 and its certificates by more than $5,000,000. It now has assets of more than $115,000,000 and is considered the strongest fraternal life insurance associations in the world.

The Woodmen of the World operates Radio Station WOW in Omaha and has a tuberculosis hospital and chapel in San Antonio, Texas.

W. O. W. is now moving to its new quarters in the Insurance Building in the heart of Omaha. The Insurance Building, which is owned by W. O. W., has been transformed into one of the most modern buildings in the city. It has a huge vault formerly occupied by a bank and trust company. More than $105,000,000 of securities were recently moved under the care of forty armed men and armored cars down the main street of Omaha to the new burglar-proof vaults.

More than ninety-five per cent of W. O. W.'s assets are in the highest grade government, state, city and county bonds of nearly every state in which W. O. W. does business.

TO THE BANKS OF HANCOCK COUNTY AND ADJOINING COUNTIES.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Mayor and Commissioners of the City of Bay St. Louis, shall receive bids from Banks at the first regular April, 1934, meeting of the Board, held in the City Hall in said City on Monday, the 2nd, day of April, 1934, at ten o'clock A. M., for the privilege of keeping the City Funds, or any part thereof, for a period of two years beginning April 3rd, 1934, pursuant to Chapter 105, Code of 1930.

The said bids must be on file by 10:00 o'clock A. M., on the first Monday of April, 1934.

The Board of Mayor and Commissioners reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

This the 5th, day of March, A. D., 1934.

H. GRADY PERKINS,

Commissioner of Public Utilities and Clerk of the Commission Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

City Echoes

—Mr. and Mrs. A. S. McQueen have returned from a brief visit to Mrs. McQueen's former home, D.L.C. Miss., where they visited relatives.

—Mr. Robert Morgan of Mobile and Louisville was a week end visitor to Bay St. Louis, stopping at the family home of Mrs. L. Eagan.

—Miss Gertrude Calhoun of New Orleans has been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. L. M. Gex, and family, at their home in Carroll avenue.

—Miss Josephine Dorsey and Mr. Robert E. Jones of Bogalusa, La., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dean Pierce, at their home in Nicholson avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Piccaluga and Mr. and Mrs. Piccaluga, Jr., motored out from New Orleans Sunday and visited Mr. and Mrs. R. de Montluzin.

—Mrs. H. de Ben and accomplished young daughter, Melanie, spent a few days of the early part of the week in New Orleans, visiting relatives and friends.

—The many friends of Mrs. Johnson S. Shaw will be pleased to learn she is better and glad to see her out again, after spending a while at the King's Daughters Hospital in Gulfport.

—Miss Louise Manade, who has been visiting friends on the Waveland beach section, has returned to her home in New Orleans. Miss Maude was the house guest of Mrs. Auguste Carriere.

—The death of Evariste Toulme, former resident of Bay St. Louis, but for many years living at Gulfport, is reported. The funeral and interment was held from the late home at Gulfport. He was a brother of former Mayor R. W. Toulme, of Bay St. Louis, and was widely and favorably known. He is survived by his family. A splendid Coast citizen, his death is deeply deplored.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ryland and son, Billy, motored over from Baton Rouge, La., the past week-end and visited Bay St. Louis friends, house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Laurent Dickson at their Carroll avenue home. They enjoyed their stay to the extent that they plan an early return.

—Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Briede and son, Mr. A. H. Briede motored out from New Orleans Tuesday to visit Waveland and Bay St. Louis friends and visited their summer home in Coleman avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Briede are quite fond of the Bay-Waveland section and never miss an opportunity to visit.

—Mr. and Mrs. Sam George have as their house guests Mrs. Henry Rightor, of New Orleans, and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Ernest and Mrs. Henry Marsh, residents of Washington, D. C., who are spending a while South. Mr. and Mrs. George have leased the Penn place on North Beach Boulevard.

—Mr. Joseph Combel, pioneer Bay St. Louisian, who now resides in New Orleans, was a visitor to Bay St. Louis friends Sunday for the day, house-guest of his friend, Mr. Oscar Lagniel, and family, Washington street. Mr. Combel is hale and hearty, past eighty years. He should live many more years from all appearances.

—Bids for the construction of the Cazeneuve home, Main street, to replace the homestead recently destroyed by fire, were recently opened and rejected. However, plans were altered and revised and bids, we understand, will be opened Saturday of this week. Plans show an attractive and handsome dwelling, embracing modern and latest home improvements.

—Because of death in the family of the firm owning the Vanity Shop at Gulfport this week, the Bay St. Louis P. T. A. style show, to have been presented tonight (Friday) at Bay High School auditorium, has been consequently postponed to Friday night of next week. Many tickets, already sold, will be good for next Friday, without further notice and without necessarily changing date printed on tickets. Holders of same will govern themselves accordingly.

—Messrs. Garcia and Carr, contractors and builders, who are constructing the handsome two-story house for Mrs. P. Gaspard and Miss Geraldine Ames, on the beach boulevard, corner de Montluzin avenue, are now engaged with a force of men in finishing the place, which, when completed, will easily prove an acquisition to Bay St. Louis. The dwelling is attractive and strictly modern. Vinson Smith is the architect.

—A lack of week-end, particularly Sunday visitors, to Bay St. Louis and the balance of the coast section from New Orleans is attributed to Sunday horse races in New Orleans. It is said many who would otherwise come hither remain to attend the races. However, if this be so, there will be a change shortly as the race track closes about March 17. It is time New Orleans folk were casting glances toward the Gulf Coast in anticipation of summer.

—Even though the funds did not last sufficiently long to complete the task, considerable work was accomplished in and around Bay St. Louis as well as over the county in mosquito eradication. Considerable ditching and drainage in swamps and other low places will carry away stagnant water and breeding places for the pest will cease to exist. This labor was well directed, a health cause well served and the money judiciously spent. It is hoped that at no distant date the work will be resumed and the objective accomplished in its entirety.

—With the passing of winter and now one the verge of spring time it is reasonable to expect there will be considerable improvement in and about town. Many houses need new roofs, painting, etc. No better time than the present.

—Miss Thelma Eagan of Louisville, Ky., came home for a week's vacation, visiting her mother, Mrs. L. Eagan in Main street. Another daughter, Mrs. Madeline Andersen came over from New Orleans for the week-end, the family had a very delightful reunion.

For years I wandered about the face of the earth, hoping I would some day meet the woman I wanted for my mate.

I wanted her hair to reach her waist in a flowing mass of silken brownness with glints of gleaming copper.

I wanted her eyes to be like twin stars shining from a heaven that was mine.

I wanted her to have a quick, keen brain and a true sense of humor.

I wanted her to be pretty, with a strong sense of feminine appeal.

I wanted her to be a woman who stood out from all other women.

I found her!

She was 10,000 times more wonderful in every way than I had dreamed. But all she said was: "What the dickens would I want to marry you for?"—Exchange.
